MY INTENTION FOR TODAY

What do you want to release?

WELCOME

Welcome to Learn the Emotion Code

A live workshop with Mila Velazquez, MSPT, CECPT

The Emotion Code is just the tool - what matters is what it unlocks.

Today you will learn how your subconscious mind communicates, how to find what your body is holding onto, and how to release it. For good.

You do not need any special gifts or training to do this. Your body already knows how to do it. We are simply learning its language.

This workbook is a reference guide, a practice log, and a space for your own observations. Come back to it. The patterns that emerge over time are often the most important ones.

"Better after one session than 10 years of talk therapy."

- Nancy B.

WHAT YOU WILL LEAVE WITH TODAY

- ☐ An understanding of what trapped emotions are and how they affect your body
- ☐ Working knowledge of the Emotion Code chart
- ☐ At least one method of muscle testing you can use on yourself
- ☐ Your first trapped emotion identified and released
- ☐ A framework for ongoing self-practice at home

A NOTE FROM MILA

I have been in rooms with people for over 30 years - first as a Physical Therapist, now as an Emotion Code Practitioner. What I know is this: your body has been trying to tell you something. Today, we learn how to listen.

What is the Emotion Code?

Developed by Dr. Bradley Nelson, D.C.

The Emotion Code is an energy healing method developed by Dr. Bradley Nelson, a chiropractor who spent decades observing a pattern in his patients: physical symptoms that had no clear physical cause - and that disappeared when the emotional energy behind them was identified and released.

THE CORE PRINCIPLE

Emotional energy can become trapped in the body during intense or overwhelming experiences. These trapped emotions create energetic imbalances that can contribute to physical pain, emotional reactivity, relationship difficulties, and patterns that seem impossible to shift - no matter how much work you do.

Trapped emotions are real, measurable energies. They are not metaphor. They occupy space in your body, and they can distort the energy field of the tissue or organ where they are lodged.

HOW IT WORKS

- ☐ We use muscle testing to communicate with the subconscious mind
- ☐ The subconscious identifies the specific trapped emotion
- ☐ We may gather details - the age it was trapped, whether it is inherited
- ☐ We release it using magnetic energy along the governing meridian

WHAT IT CAN HELP WITH

- ☐ Chronic physical pain with no clear cause
- ☐ Anxiety, sadness, patterns of fear
- ☐ Relationship difficulties
- ☐ Feeling stuck or unable to move forward
- ☐ The sense that something is blocking you

THE GOVERNING MERIDIAN

The governing meridian runs from the tailbone, up the spine, over the top of the head and down the face to the upper lip. In traditional Chinese medicine, it governs all of the yang meridians. Running a magnet or your hand along this line three times is what releases the trapped emotional energy - essentially giving the subconscious the message that the emotion has been acknowledged and can now go.

NOTES

The Chart of Emotions

Your primary reference tool - use it every time you work with the Emotion Code

The chart is divided into Column A and Column B, and 6 rows corresponding to organ systems. Muscle testing tells you which column, which row, and then which specific emotion within that group.

SECTION 03

Understanding Muscle Testing

How the subconscious communicates through the body

Your subconscious mind processes everything - every experience, every emotion, every sensation you have ever had. It does not use words. It communicates through the body. Muscle testing is how we ask.

When a true statement is made, the body becomes stronger. When a false statement is made, or something resonates with an unresolved energy, the body becomes temporarily weaker. This is not a trick - it is the same principle used in kinesiology, and your body does it automatically whether you intend it to or not.

"Your body knows. It has always known. Muscle testing is just how we ask."

- MILA VELAZQUEZ

THREE METHODS FOR SELF-TESTING

SWAY TEST

Stand relaxed, feet shoulder-width apart. Make a true statement - your body will gently sway forward. Make a false statement - it will sway back. This is your baseline yes/no signal.

ARM TEST

Extend one arm to the side at shoulder height. A partner applies gentle downward pressure on the wrist. A true statement - the arm holds strong. A false statement - the arm gives way.

FINGER TEST

Form a ring with your thumb and one finger. Try to pull the ring apart while making your statement. Strong ring = yes (true). Ring pulls apart easily = no (false). Good for solo practice.

IMPORTANT

Muscle testing is a skill. It takes practice to trust it, especially on yourself. Hydration helps. If you are getting inconsistent signals, drink water and try again. Testing on simple, known truths first (your name, your birthday) builds confidence.

NOTES ON MUSCLE TESTING

The Release Process

Step by step - follow this every time

The process is simple. Your subconscious does the heavy lifting. Your job is to ask the right questions in the right order, stay present, and trust what you receive.

- 1 Establish your baseline
Say your name and notice the sway forward (or a strong muscle test response). Say a false name and notice the movement back. This is your yes/no signal for the session.
- 2 Ask: "Do I have a trapped emotion that my body is ready to release?"
Wait for a clear yes or no response. If yes, continue. If no, ask if there is something else your body needs first.
- 3 Identify the column
Ask: "Is this emotion in Column A?" If yes - Column A. If no - Column B.
- 4 Identify the row
Ask: "Is it in rows 1, 2, or 3?" Narrow down to the specific row using yes/no questions.
- 5 Narrow to the specific emotion
Read through the emotions in that row one at a time. Your body will give a clear yes when you land on the right one.
- 6 Ask for details (optional but valuable)
Ask: "How old was I when this was trapped?" Count down in decades, then years. Ask: "Is this an inherited emotion?" (passed down from a parent or ancestor). If inherited, ask: "Was it from my mother's side or father's side?"
- 7 Release the emotion
Intend to release the trapped emotion. Run a magnet (or your hand, or a finger) firmly along the governing meridian - from the centre of your forehead, over the top of your head, and down the back of your neck - three times for a personal emotion, ten times for an inherited emotion.
- 8 Confirm the release
Ask: "Was that trapped emotion successfully released?" You should receive a clear yes. If not, repeat the release.

Governing meridian reminder: Start at the centre of your forehead. Run your hand (or magnet) over the crown of your head, continuing firmly down the back of your neck to the base of your skull. That is one pass. Do this 3 times for a standard release, 10 times for an inherited emotion.

GUIDED EXERCISE

The Sway Test - Finding Your Signal

Follow along with Mila. Take your time with each step - there is no rush.

- 1 Stand with your feet hip-width apart. Soften your knees. Let your arms hang loose at your sides. Close your eyes if it feels comfortable.
- 2 Take three slow breaths. Feel your feet on the floor.
- 3 Say your full name out loud: "My name is [your name]." Notice any sensation in your body. Do you feel a gentle forward pull? A sense of opening?
- 4 Now say a completely false name: "My name is [not your name]." Notice what changes. Does your body want to sway back? Feel heavier? Resist?
- 5 Repeat with something you know to be true: "I am a woman" / "I am a human being." Then something false. Build confidence in the signal.

SECTION 05

What is a Heart-Wall?

One of the most significant discoveries in energy healing

When we experience deep heartache - loss, betrayal, grief, or prolonged emotional pain - the subconscious mind can take action to protect us. It builds what Dr. Nelson calls a Heart-Wall: a barrier around the heart made up of trapped emotional energy.

In the short term, this protection makes sense. It shields us from the full weight of pain we were not equipped to process at the time. But over time, a Heart-Wall becomes a wall - and it blocks not only pain coming in, but love going out and coming in as well.

SIGNS YOU MAY HAVE A HEART-WALL

- ☐ Difficulty feeling genuine joy or love even when life is objectively good
- ☐ Feeling disconnected from people you care about
- ☐ Relationships that consistently feel flat, effortful, or just slightly out of reach
- ☐ A persistent sense of loneliness even in the company of others
- ☐ Difficulty receiving love, compliments, or support gracefully
- ☐ A feeling that your heart is somehow guarded - even when you do not want it to be

THE HEART-WALL REMOVAL PROCESS

Heart-Wall removal works the same way as releasing any trapped emotion - but there are multiple layers. Each layer is a different trapped emotion that contributed to the wall. Most people need several sessions to clear a Heart-Wall completely. The results are often profound.

The subconscious will often describe the Heart-Wall as a material - wood, stone, brick, glass. This is not imagination. It is the subconscious communicating texture and density.

"Helped me rekindle my relationship with my sister after 2 years of distance. I did not expect that - but my body knew what needed to go."

- ANNA O.

HEART-WALL CLEARING IS AVAILABLE AS A FOCUSED 1:1 SESSION WITH MILA

MY REFLECTION ON HEART-WALL

After Your Session

What to expect in the 1-3 days after releasing trapped emotions

Your body just did something significant. Releasing trapped emotions is real work - even though it feels gentle. Give yourself some care in the hours and days that follow.

THE PROCESSING PERIOD

A processing period of 1 to 3 days after releasing is completely normal and is actually a sign that something real happened. This is not a bad sign - it is your body integrating the change. Stay with it.

COMMON EXPERIENCES DURING PROCESSING

Emotional release

You may feel waves of the released emotion - tears, sadness, even unexpected relief. This is the energy completing its exit. Let it move through you.

Tiredness

Energy work is genuinely tiring. Rest if you can. Your nervous system has been recalibrated.

Vivid dreams

Your subconscious often continues processing during sleep. Dreams may be intense, meaningful, or just strange. Write them down if you can.

Feeling lighter

Many people describe a literal physical sensation of weight lifting. This is real. The energy that was trapped had density.

Temporary echoes

You may briefly feel the emotion you released more intensely before it clears completely. This passes. It does not mean the release did not work.

Physical shifts

Tingling, warmth, or changes in areas of chronic tension are common. Your body is reorganising.

POST-SESSION SELF-CARE

- ☐ Drink water. Lots of it. Energy work is dehydrating and hydration supports the release process.
- ☐ Rest when you can. Avoid scheduling something demanding immediately after a session.
- ☐ Be gentle with yourself. This is not the day for hard conversations or big decisions.
- ☐ Note what comes up. Emotions, memories, dreams, or physical sensations that arise in the following days are often connected to what was released.
- ☐ Trust the process. Your subconscious knows what it is doing.

HOW I FEEL RIGHT NOW - NOTES

Practice Log

For ongoing self-practice at home - keep this with you

Regular self-practice is where the real shifts happen. Even one or two emotions per session, a few times a week, builds momentum over time. Use this log to track what your subconscious brings forward - patterns will emerge.

DATE	EMOTION FOUND	COL / ROW	AGE	DETAILS (INHERITED, FROM WHOM, CONTEXT)	RELEASED?

Tip: After a few weeks of practice, look back at what your body has been releasing. Are certain emotions showing up repeatedly? Are they clustered around a particular time in your life? This is your subconscious revealing what it is ready to clear - and pointing you toward the deeper work.

PATTERNS I AM NOTICING OVER TIME

Journal Space

Your body communicates in more ways than muscle testing

"What emotions came up for me today?"

"What patterns do I notice in my trapped emotions?"

"How does my body feel after releasing?"

Free Writing

Use this space however your body is asking you to use it

"What do I want to feel free from?"

"What has been the most surprising thing I learned today?"

Free space

Your Next Steps

Keep going - the work you did today is just the beginning

Today you learned how your subconscious communicates, identified and released trapped emotions, and experienced the Emotion Code firsthand. Most people feel something shift. The question now is: what do you do with that?

Book a 1:1 Deep Session

A focused 60-minute session with Mila. We go deeper, work through layers your body is ready to release, and address what came up today. This is where the most significant changes happen.

HEART-WALL CLEARING - SPECIFICALLY

If what resonated most for you today was the Heart-Wall section - book a dedicated Heart-Wall Clearing session. Mention this workshop when you book and Mila will know where to start.

*"Your body has been carrying things you were not meant to carry forever.
Today you started putting some of it down."*

ABOUT YOUR PRACTITIONER

About Mila

"I spent 30 years as a Physical Therapist watching patients carry pain that had no physical explanation. I tried everything I knew. Sometimes it helped. Often, it did not touch the real thing.

The Emotion Code was the missing piece. It gave me a language for what I had been watching for decades - people carrying emotional weight in their bodies and calling it physical pain.

Now I help women release what they have been carrying - usually in a single session."

CREDENTIALS

- ☐ MSPT - Master of Science in Physical Therapy
- ☐ CECP - Certified Emotion Code Practitioner
- ☐ 30 years clinical experience in physical therapy
- ☐ Specialisation in the mind-body connection and energy healing
